Meeting

Today, on 29.02.2018 the members of hold a meeting related to the implementation of the 587001-EPP-1-2017-1-AL-EPPJMO-MODULE, which aims to check the quality of the implementation of the course on Refugee Law. In this meeting, the participants decided:

1. Teaching

All classes were held according to the schedule established in the proposal and also re-emphasised in the meeting of October 2017.

2. Research

Av. Koka announced that on 5 April 2018 will defend her thesis with the title 'Irregular migration by sea: a critical analysis of EU and EU member state extraterritorial practice in light of international law' from University of Kent, London, UK.

3. Office hours

All the office hours were held. In addition, the team decided to continue the office hours also during the second semester, although the course was held during the first semester.

4. Enhancing contacts with international scholars interested in this topic.

Dr. Veshi has had contacts with some scholars in Italy; in particular, Prof. Andrea Patroni Griffi (University of Naple II) who in July 2017 organized a summer school on Refugee Law. The team is interested to exchange academic knowledge in addition to practical experience in this topic.

5. Division of the paper supervision

All the papers were submitted correctly. In average, the quality of the papers was good.

6. Organization of the workshop

The team shall start the preparation for the workshop that will be held in May 2018.

7. Controlling budget consistency

The money was spent according to the proposal: establishing a dedicated website within UNYT website for better dissemination of our results. In addition, part of the budget has been dedicated to the workshop that will be held in May. Soon, we will open the public offers and choose the best option.
