Meeting

Today, on 25.06.2018 the members of the course 'Refugee Law' held a meeting related to the implementation of the 587001-EPP-1-2017-1-AL-EPPJMO-MODULE.

In this meeting, the participants discussed these issues:

1. Research

PhD. Cand. Koka successfully defended her thesis with the title 'Irregular migration by sea: a critical analysis of EU and EU member state extraterritorial practice in light of international law' at University of Kent, London, UK on 5 April 2018.

Dr. Veshi and Dr. Koka have submitted the first article related to the research conducted under this project.

2. Enhancing contacts with international scholars interested in this topic.

Dr. Veshi has continued to have contacts with some scholars in Italy; in particular, Prof. Andrea Patroni Griffi (University of Naple II) who in July 2017 organized a summer school on Refugee Law.

3. Workshop

Papers submitted during the course 'Refugee Law' were presented during the workshop organized in May 2018 as it was planned.

4. Controlling budget consistency

The money was spent according to the proposal: establishing a dedicated website within UNYT website for better dissemination of our results. In addition, part of the budget was used for the workshop held in May.

5. Teaching 2018/2019

The members decided to continue the same multidisciplinary approach in addition to not change the syllabus presented.
